

HYBRID EVENT TYPES

When your event has a mix of in-person and virtual attendees, that is a hybrid event. With these different audiences comes different perspectives, so how do you deliver the best experience for your hybrid attendees? By choosing the right hybrid event type:

Simple Hybrid

The live event takes place at one venue, with all of the in-person attendees at that location. All virtual attendees use independent devices to synchronously experience the event.

Delayed Hybrid

The live event is in-person only, with a virtual, on-demand option available after the entire event or segments of the event have been completed.

Equal Regional Pods

The live event takes place at multiple locations, with small groups of attendees at each location (pod). While the content can be the same, each pod has its own speakers and live breakouts.

Main Location + Pods

The live event takes place at one main location, but small groups of attendees are split up at multiple locations (pods). The content from the main location is streamed to the pods for all attendees to experience synchronously.
